

DEATH IN A STORM.

About Eighty Lives Lost and Much Property Damaged.

Cotton Mills at Clifton and Paelet Suffered Terribly—Railway Traffic Crippled Owing to the Loss of Trestles and Bridges.

Columbia, S. C., June 8.—Water, not as rain, but in sheets and torrents, fell Saturday evening in the vicinity of Clifton and Paelet, S. C., swelling the streams until their beds were the confines of the valleys through which they pass.

Though the great flood of water is passing on to the ocean laden with debris of every description and the swollen streams are subsiding in the Piedmont region, the losses of life and property are increasing and a conservative estimate Sunday night places the property loss at not less than $3,500,000. The most conservative estimate of the dead is 80. At Clifton alone 100 operatives are missing from the village and all are believed to have been lost. During the day dead bodies were washed ashore here and there and occasionally a dismembered limb would float to the banks.

B. S. Johnson, reported as drowned, after clinging to a house top from Clifton down to Paelet, escaped by catching hold of a tree and returned Sunday to find his wife and four children drowned.

At Converse mills, the newest of the Clifton cluster, the walls are washed away and the looms left standing. The engine bricks were carried three miles down stream, demolishing the operative houses on the way.

Reports from the Seneca river near the Georgia line were better Sunday night. The Blue Ridge road between Seneca and Anderson is intact and the Newry mill is not badly damaged and will be running Monday.

The railroad situation has given much uneasiness here and throughout the state Sunday.

The Southern railway Sunday annulled trains between Columbia and Spartanburg, 200 feet of the trestle at Shelton, below Union, having been washed away. The Coast Line trestle, two miles west of the city, affords the only exit from Columbia to the Piedmont country and it is apparently a frail structure a mile and a half in length with wooden benches upon an island in midstream. This bridge was firm at midnight and the water is rising more slowly. The breaks on the trestles will be repaired within 48 hours if the coast line trestle holds out until Monday morning.

CRACKER BAKERS.

The Employees of the National Biscuit Co. to Strike.

Chicago, June 8.—A general strike of the various plants of the National Biscuit Co. all over the country is to be called soon according to a statement made at a meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor by Delegate McIntosh, representing the Cracker Bakers' union. Mr. McIntosh made the declaration that National Secretary Harzbecker, of the Bakers' and Confectioners' International union, with headquarters in Cleveland, had issued the general strike order in conformity with the action of the recent convention of that union, where, he said, it had been decided to make a fight on that concern because it refused to treat with these unions.

Cities in which the National Biscuit Co. has plants and which will be affected by the general strike order are Chicago, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Mo., Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Denver, Indianapolis, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Several thousand workers will be affected.

Baltimore, June 9.—In consequence of the refusal of the proprietors of the large bakeries in Baltimore to grant the demands made recently by the Journeymen Bakers' union, a general strike was begun Monday and it is estimated that about 212 men are now idle.

Three Men Drowned.

Union, S. C., June 9.—News reached here late Monday evening of an accident at Broad river bridge on the Seaboard Air Line, by which three lives were lost. Seven hundred yards of trestle were washed away from the southern approach to the bridge near Carlisle. Monday afternoon the railroad sent a pile driver to begin the work of repairing the trestle. When the engine and driver had reached the middle of the bridge it gave way and bridge, engine, driver and crew of ten were precipitated into the river. Three are reported drowned.

JURORS FAILED TO ANSWER.

Trials of Jett and White Was Postponed For One Day.

Jackson, Ky., June 9.—The first social function to break the monotony of camp life took place Monday when the officers gave a dinner to the young women of the town.

Ben Golden, of Harboursville, arrived Monday to assist in the defense of White and Jett. Attorney Oneal expressed the opinion Monday night that Jett and White would be tried jointly. The men continue to occupy cells in the same cage.

The town was quiet Monday night, though firing by drunken men on the outskirts of the camp is expected as a nightly occurrence. It is anticipated that the additional venire from Magoffin county will arrive and the trials proceed Tuesday. The troops look forward to the time when a verdict is returned as occasion for trouble if an attack has ever really been in contemplation by friends of the prisoners, and extra precaution will probably be coincident with the close of the trials. In the absence of Col. Williams in Lexington Maj. Allen is in command and lieutenants are performing the duties of five absent captains.

When court was convened Monday morning it was found that all the men summoned as jurors had not arrived and a recess was taken to allow them time to get here. At 10 o'clock Judge Redwine adjourned court till Tuesday morning to give time for the securing of 25 more men for jurors. It seems that the dread of mixing in the feud was so great among the Magoffin county people that nearly half of the men summoned failed to answer in court when their names were called Monday morning. Augustus Arnett and H. G. Arnett, of Salyersville, are here as attorneys for the defense to assist in the examination of the jurors. While Elisor Jones goes after more men Deputy Elisor George Whitaker is left in charge here. A large crowd had gathered in anticipation of the trials. The military guard is in charge of the courthouse and many who entered were searched for weapons.

A GIFT OF RARE VALUE.

King Emmanuel Sends Valuable Books to President Roosevelt.

Washington, June 9.—King Victor Emmanuel has sent to President Roosevelt a gift of rare value which will be presented to the president by Signor Mayor des Planches, Italian ambassador, who, at his majesty's request, will be received in special audience at the white house. The gift is one of books and consists of the war reports of Prince Eugene of Savoy and of a copy of Dante's divine comedy with a comment in Latin by Stefano Talice da Ricaldone. The books are elegantly bound in full red morocco and have the royal crest with the king's monogram in the four corners of each volume. The war reports are in 20 volumes and the comedia in one volume.

The president is an enthusiastic admirer of Prince Eugene and has made a careful study of his campaigns. In some way the Italian ambassador learned of this fact, and as soon as the king heard it, preparations for sending the gift were begun. The work is entitled "Campagne del Principe Eugenio di Savoia." It was published for private distribution by the late King Humbert.

The other work, "Divine Commedia di Dante Alighieri," is accompanied by a comment hitherto unpublished, which until recently was preserved by manuscript at the royal library in Turin. The books are quarto size and are printed on paper of Italian make.

Signor Mayor will also carry a personal message of good will from the king to the president.

THE FLOOD SITUATION.

Mississippi River Commenced to Fall Tuesday Morning.

Known Loss of Life Is 20 and Property Loss Is Estimated at $3,000,000 in That Vicinity—Rich Farm Lands Inundated.

St. Louis, June 9.—The crest of the flood has been reached and the Mississippi is falling. At 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning the gauge registered 37.1 feet, and indicating a fall of 4 feet since 7 o'clock Monday evening.

Reports from along the Missouri river indicate that it is falling rapidly north of there. The high water mark of the great flood of 1903 as established at St. Louis is 37.5 feet.

St. Louis, June 9.—So great an extent of territory is covered by the flood, so constantly changing are the conditions as the water creeps higher and renders the situation the more chaotic, and so unreliable are the various rumors of the devastation that a substantiated summary of the losses of lives and property can not be obtained, but Monday night information from apparently reliable sources showed the situation to be as follows:

River 37.5 feet, stationary. Twenty lives known to have been lost. Over 200,000 acres of rich farming lands under water. All of Venice and the greater part of Madison and of Granite City under water. Twenty-five thousand people homeless. Freight traffic paralyzed and passenger traffic crippled. The shipping and manufacturing district of East St. Louis for three miles along the river front under water from 2 to 8 feet of water. Hundreds of head of stock drowned. East St. Louis threatened with inundation. St. Louis flooded only along the water front. Entire property loss estimated at $2,000,000.

The flood has probably reached the zenith of its devastating power and the situation is appalling. The climax came Sunday night when by the breaking of a levee near Granite City a wall of water six feet high rushed down on Madison and deeper engulfed the already stricken city, sweeping houses from their foundations and drowning 15 refugees who were vainly fleeing for their lives. The report was current that 15 workmen in the St. Louis car and foundry works had been drowned, but later it was found that while seven employees had lost their lives, 13 others, men, women and children, had perished.

Hundreds of persons were forced to the roofs of their floating houses and an appeal was sent to St. Louis for assistance. Every effort was made to force steamers against the heavy current four miles north to the stricken town but it was only before the steamers Mark Twain and Annie Russell, lashed together and their engines working under every ounce of steam, after five hours of battle with the current, were able to reach Madison.

For the remainder of the day and into the night the work of rescuing refugees from floating houses, tree tops and various high places proceeded and there being no place to take them nearer than St. Louis, they were Monday night pouring into the city by hundreds, wet, hungry and dispirited.

River thieves are looting the various vacant houses. Men in skiffs have been seen to enter half submerged houses in Venice, Madison and Granite City, and carry away everything they could find.

In East St. Louis strings of freight cars and houses with only the roofs above the surface told of the depth of the water. Grain elevators that ordinarily stand at the edge of the Mississippi are now a mile from dry land. Business in the railroad yards was almost at a standstill.

The stretch arising from the back water on the surface of which floats filth, is offensive. This is a menace to health. The sanitary department will make every effort to cleanse the district as soon as the flood has departed.

Word was received Monday night that the levee at Kemper's Landing, below St. Louis, had broken, flooding thousands of acres of fine Illinois farming land.

W. R. Wilkinson, a commission merchant at Cape Girardeau, 150 miles below St. Louis, arrived here Monday by boat after a long and hard struggle against the current and reports that the damage to crops between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau amount to $2,000,000. The river is 40 miles wide below St. Louis in low places.

A BOMBARDMENT.

The French Artillery Opened on Rebellious Tribesmen's Stronghold.

Beniouff, Algeria, June 9.—The French artillery opened a preliminary fire at 5:30 o'clock Monday morning on Figui, the stronghold of the rebellious Zenaga tribesmen, who recently attacked and tried to ambush Gov. Gen. Jonnart and his escort, of whom 13 were seriously injured. The bombardment lasted until 11 o'clock when a great destruction of houses had been wrought, the mosque destroyed, and it is believed a great number of natives killed.

Gen. O'Connor commands the punitive expedition, consisting of 4,000 men of the foreign legion and a strong force of artillery, armed with guns firing machine shells. Gen. O'Connor's plan was to advance on Figui in three columns and to post his artillery on commanding hills surrounding the rebel stronghold.

At 9:20 a. m. the French troops occupied Juive hill and another eminence, both strategic positions, by a surprise movement. The ramparts of the town were then 1,200 metres distant and, like the houses which were half a mile behind them, built of compressed earth from these hills, the artillery made excellent practice, the machine shells making a big breach in the ramparts and destroying a multitude of houses, the inhabitants of which had fled at the first shots. Finally the fire so concentrated on the mosque, which was much venerated, and the edifice was blown to pieces. This destruction of the mosque is expected to have a great moral effect. The Moors concealed in the palm groves, repelled with artillery to the French bombardment, but without effect. At 11 o'clock the French guns were withdrawn to Djennan-dar, where Gen. O'Connor was awaiting offers of submission when this dispatch left.

All the women and children left the town before the action. The French fired a few shells at distant parts of the oasis in order to impress the Moors with the power and range of the French guns. Throughout the engagement there was no loss on the French side.

The French artillery fired 600 shells at the town. The native cavalry, the chassiers, covered Afrique, and the troops of the foreign legion were posted during the bombardment at points surrounding the town, but the infantry did not fire a single shot.

At 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon an envoy from the Ameer of Figui arrived at this place. Gen. O'Connor has received congratulations from the commander of the 19th army corps on the skill with which he conducted the operations. No decision has been taken regarding future operations. It is possible if the Figui tribesmen do not come to terms, other villages in the oasis will be bombarded.

It is also reported he has said he wants to kill two more persons before he dies, but their names can not be learned. A young man was with him when he went from Indian Springs to West Union, and it is thought he is hiding somewhere near West Union, 12 miles from here.

Loogootee, Ind., June 9.—The sheriff's posse hunting for Arthur Lions, accused of murdering his stepmother, is still on his track, fresh evidence of his location having been discovered late Monday afternoon and bloodhounds have been sent for and will be used Tuesday morning. Lions is hard pressed and would have been captured if it had not been for aid from his relatives. He has lost his coat and vest and is clad only in shoes, pants, shirt and hat with two 38-caliber revolvers in his hip pocket. He has sent word to Sheriff Holsapple that he will never be captured alive, but will kill himself first, and says his time is short under any circumstance. The feeling is growing intense and every precaution will have to be taken to prevent a lynching if any one is injured in the round up.
